SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Far West's "flood of a thousand years" entered the recovery stage today as 15,000 homeless families and hundreds of stricken farms and businesses dug out from nature's $1-billion blow.

"As far as the real emergency — that's over, right now," said Jim Morrison, Civil Defense spokesman at Eureka, Calif., in hard-hit Humboldt County.

The report was identical in the five flood-distressed states of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Helicopters and jeeps brought the first outside food supplies in a week Tuesday to the last known isolated pocket — 500 persons stranded in lumbering villages west of Yreka, Calif., near the Oregon border.

"Everything's beginning to look a lot rosier," reported Bill Sowle, Yreka Civil Defense chief.

"They're getting back down into the towns now and starting to dig out," said Morrison. "No more people want to be evacuated. They want to be sustained where they are."

The flood, described by Department of Interior water specialists as probably the greatest ever experienced in the West, caused 19 known deaths in California and 18 in Oregon.

It carved federally designated disaster areas out of northern California, Oregon and Washington, where federal, local and charitable organizations are running emergency recovery centers on a "for-the-duration" basis.

California's damage was estimated at upwards of $500 million.

In Oregon, many evacuees returned to devastation left by the Willamette River. Oregon's damage totaled $315 million in what Gov. Mark Hatfield terms his state's worst disaster.

At Reedsport, an estimated 1,500 persons were still receiving clothing and food from volunteer centers and the Red Cross. Several dozen homeless were bedded down at the Independence, Ore., city hall.

In Washington, latest state to be added to the disaster list by President Johnson, most high-water problems have ended. No persons are known to be stranded.

The Yakima River in central Washington posed a potential threat because of two huge ice jams, one a mile long and the other three miles in length. Many passes in the Cascade Mountains remained closed by snow slides.

Washington estimated its damage as $7 million.

In Idaho and Nevada, snow or cold weather prevailed, replacing flood conditions unusual for those areas. Rivers neared normal levels.

Idaho estimated damage at $5 million. Nevada officials ventured no dollar estimate of damage.

In Oregon and California refugee areas, as one county official put it, the people were asking "Who's going to help us? We're destitute and we've lost our homes."

The Red Cross and the Office of Emergency Planning announced they have begun flyovers of the disaster areas to determine long-range recovery needs.

All branches of the military worked beside civilian workers for an extended airlift of food, medicine, livestock feed, clothes, gasoline, mail and other supplies.

The 50-odd helicopters which evacuated 600 persons in Humboldt County and Oregon City, Ore., have begun to supply full-time airlifts, except for unexpected emergency medical evacuations.

Appeal Hinted In Racial Case

Judge Dismisses Rap Against KKK

MACON, Ga. (AP) — The federal government, stymied in efforts to try six alleged Ku Klux Klansmen charged with conspiring to oppress Negroes, may appeal the ruling of a district judge to the U.S. Supreme Court.

U.S. Dist. Judge W. A. Bootle dismissed federal conspiracy indictments against the six Tuesday. The federal charges were brought after two of the six were acquitted in a state court in the shotgun slaying of Lemuel Penn, Washington, D.C. Negro educator.

Bootle's ruling said enforcement of general criminal laws is a local matter. He referred to the state acquittal of murder charges for two of the six and said it is important that the federal court "not usurp jurisdiction where it has none."

Penn, a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve, was hit by a passing car in early morning darkness July 11. He was returning to Washington with two other Negro officers after two weeks of active duty at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Cecil Myers and Joseph Howard Sims were acquitted of murder charges in the Penn slaying in a state court trial at Danville Sept. 4.

They were among six later charged by the FBI with conspiring to injure and oppress Negroes. The other four are Denver Willis Phillips, George H. Turner, Herbert Guest and James S. Lackey.

State murder charges are still pending against Lackey.

A jury freed Myers and Sims of the Penn slaying after deliberating three hours. The state introduced a statement quoting Lackey as having said that he, Sims and Myers spotted the Penn car, followed it and that both Sims and Myers fired shotguns into the car.

Lackey repudiated the statement, declaring he was harassed by the FBI into making it.

Grand Jury Offered New Rights Data

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A federal grand jury reconvenes Jan. 11 to consider Mississippi's case of the three slain civil rights workers — including "new evidence."

A government source confirmed reports of new evidence in the Justice Department's efforts to bring 21 men to trial in the case.

The civil rights workers were killed near Philadelphia, Miss., last summer after venturing into Neshoba County to investigate the burning of a Negro church.

Judge Harold Cox of Jackson issued the call Tuesday for the grand jury to reconvene. His order made no mention of the murders.

The Justice Department asked for the grand jury after Carter dismissed charges against 19 of the men at a Meridian hearing.

The commissioner's decision in the hearing, at which the government had only to show "probable cause" for a charge, was termed unprecedented by the Justice Department.

Charges against the other two men — arrested at Biloxi, Miss., and Shreveport, La. — were dropped.

Trio Escapes Hail of Cincy Police Bullets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three men escaped in a hail of police bullets Tuesday night after trying to run down a police sergeant with their car.

Sgt. James Martin of Elmwood Place had attempted to stop the men after one of them passed a $20 counterfeit bill in a confectionery owned by Mrs. Cecilia Wesley.

Martin approached their car with drawn revolver. The auto suddenly started up and slanted directly at him. He escaped by leaping between parked cars.

The sergeant said he emptied his gun at the car, with one bullet shattering the rear window. Officers said a woman witness told them the car's gas line tank was leaking and one of the men appeared to have been shot.

Mrs. Wesley said she summoned police when green ink from the phony bill rubbed off on her hands.

Migrant Worker Registration Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contractors of migrant farm workers must register with the Labor Department in order to do business in 1965, the department said today.

The farm labor contractor registration act applies to those who, for a fee, recruit, solicit, hire, furnish or transport more than nine migrant farm workers a year for interstate farm employment.

It does not apply to farm employers who recruit only for their own operations. The act was aimed at improving working conditions for the migrant workers, the department said.

Betz Is Zoning Inspector For Circleville Township

Paul Betz, Route 4, has been appointed zoning inspector for Circleville Twp. He was named by the township's board of trustees.

Betz, who will be responsible for writing all building permits, was a member of the original planning and zoning board selected by the trustees.

The zoning inspector will maintain an office in his home. He lives on the Lancaster Pike.

Members of the new zoning board are Ralph Ankrom, 130 Crites Road, president; Robert Liston, Route 3, vice chairman; John Evans, Route 3; Howard Parker, Route 1 and Donald Bower, Route 1. Parker replaced Betz on the board while the other members were reappointed.

THE ZONING appeals board is composed of Roger May, Route 1, chairman, John Chilcote, Route 4, vice chairman; Dan Rose, Route 3; Harry Diehl, Route 3, and Paul Marshall, Route 3.

Robert Huffer, prosecuting attorney, spoke to a joint meeting of the trustees and the zoning officials Monday night. He outlined the duties and responsibilities of each group.

Beginning the first of the year, persons desiring to erect a building must first obtain a permit from the zoning inspector.

If the permit is not granted, the applicant may take his request before the board of appeals. Any areas to be rezoned must be considered by the zoning board.

Zoning maps will be on display at the county engineer's Courthouse office, the city service department office and in the home of Mrs. Carl Purcell, township clerk who lives at 156 W. Franklin St.

Circleville Twp. trustees are John Fissel, 385 Northridge Road; Lawrence Liston, 151 E. Watt St.; and Luther List, Route 1.

Free Coffee Ready On Ohio Turnpike

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Travelers on the Ohio Turnpike on New Year's Eve again will be urged to stop for free coffee at any of the 16 service plaza restaurants. The idea is to promote safety by keeping drivers alert.

All toll collectors — following an idea begun five years ago — will hand out invitations urging motorists to stop at a plaza restaurant and greet 1965 with one or more free cups of coffee.

Free hot coffee will be dispensed at toll road restaurants from 10 o'clock New Year's Eve to 7 a.m. New Year's Day.

Last year more than 3,000 cups were served during the giveaway hours.

Eastern Ohio Miners To Get Pay Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 7,000 union coal miners in Eastern Ohio will get a $1 a day pay increase Friday, to $26.25.

The increase was included in a United Mine Workers contract negotiated with mine operators last spring.

Comic Cartoonist Dies

BRONXVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Cliff Sterrett, 81, retired King Features Syndicate cartoonist who created the comic strip "Poly and Her Pals," died Tuesday of cancer.

Cancer Control Seen after 1970

MONTREAL (AP) — An American cancer specialist forecasts that final breakthroughs toward controlling cancer by vaccines and miraculous curative drugs will be achieved "quicker than we'll get to the moon" — perhaps soon after 1970.

Dr. Jacob Gershon-Cohen of Philadelphia said he based that prediction on his confidence that by that time:

1. Final proof will have been established that many, if not most, cancers are caused by viruses; and
2. Further development will have been made on recent discoveries in understanding the structure of the basic core of all viruses — specifically, the nucleic acids DNA and RNA.

He said these discoveries are "probably more significant, if less appreciated by the public, than the unlocking of atomic energy."

Gershon-Cohen, a radiologist of the Albert Einstein Medical Center, spoke at a news conference prior to acting as chairman today of a symposium on viruses and cancer at the 131st meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Gershon-Cohen also told newsmen:

1. Achievement of better control over ordinary viruses — including those of the common cold — may help reduce the danger of getting cancer. It is possible some such viruses may be insidious helpmates of cancer-causers, or even cancer-causers themselves.
2. The day will come when the taking of the temperature of specific areas of the body with devices based on infra-red detection techniques "will be as important as X-ray" in helping detect ailments.
3. All people may be harboring latent, non-active cancer viruses — with cancer developing only in those people exposed to some triggering action such as excessive radiation, certain chemicals, or some internal disturbance.

"I think we'll get positive results quicker than we'll get to the moon," said Gershon-Cohen.

When a reporter said the American space agency has its sights set on a moon landing by 1970, Gershon-Cohen said he expected the cancer breakthroughs would be almost achieved by then.

In answer to another question, he said that by then he expected the way would finally be open to perfecting vaccines and curative drugs. He added that it would be only "wild speculation" to hazard a guess on when such vaccines and drugs actually would be developed.

Stage Set For New Parley Of Assembly

GOP Successful In Pasing Bill To Assure Control

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The stage is now set, the new cast is anxious and the taxpayers may get some new lines from a very old script.

So, five days from today the curtain will rise on the next session of the Legislature, the 106th Ohio General Assembly.

The old show, the 105th General Assembly, closed Tuesday night.

It was a special showing, mostly Republican-produced, and had a short run of six weeks, beginning Nov. 9.

The new show Jan. 4 may run three months or longer. Democrats, with more parts for this one, promise the new session will have more drama.

There'll be some new stars, too. Gone is veteran Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mecham, R-Atchens. He was defeated in the November elections.

In his place will be Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, elected Tuesday night at a caucus of Republican senators.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, a stand-in in Senate matters up to now, may also move to the center of the stage.

Brown's party, Republican, made a major bid for control of the Senate as the special session faded away.

The House completed passage of a Senate-approved measure to give Brown the power to break tie votes in the next Senate on legislation.

The vote, 77-34, sent the bill to the governor for signing into law and a court test of its constitutionality.

With the Senate split 16-16 between Democrats and Republicans, Brown's vote could be a big one. Until now, the lieutenant governor has acted to break ties only on Senate organizational matters, although he is the Senate's presiding officer.

Democrats, with big gains from the November elections, contend the bill is unconstitutional and are expected to test the matter in the courts.

Among other actions:

- Passage by both houses of compromise measure to combine the forestry and reclamation divisions in the Natural Resources Department and to clarify the right of legislators to teach in state-supported schools. Both acts become effective 90 days after the governor signs them into law.
- Senate confirmation of nine trustees appointed by the governor to run the new Cleveland State University and nine others for the new Toledo State College of Medicine. Two of the trustees for the Cleveland school, Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek, a Democrat, and Rep. William R. Taft, a Republican, both of Cleveland, will have to wait a year before formally assuming the posts because they are members of the Legislature.

Bulletproof Glass To Protect Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking a tip from J. Edgar Hoover, the Secret Service has ordered a shield of bulletproof glass for President Johnson when he views the inaugural parade Jan. 20.

And officials are considering a similar precaution on the inauguration platform at the U.S. Capitol.

The Warren Commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy asked FBI Director Hoover his recommendations for improving presidential protection.

Rail Union Bows to Halt Set by Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ordered firemen to end their strike against the Southern Railroad. A union official said early today members have been ordered to lift their picket lines and return to work.

"I have notified all of our local chairmen to remove the picket lines and terminate the strike of our members as required by the court order," said J. W. Jennings, vice president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Jennings said the union had been served with the restraining order issued Tuesday night in Columbus, Ga., by U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliot.

The union clamped a sudden strike on Southern's 8,100 miles in 13 states and the District of Columbia early Tuesday when the railroad began to operate some yard and freight engines without firemen.

The line, with 16,000 employees including 1,200 firemen, serves such key cities as Washington; Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Memphis, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Greenville and Columbia, S.C., and Charlotte, N.C.

Viet Nam Units Recapture City

Re-Evaluation Of Viet Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell says he wants a re-evaluation of the U.S. position in South Viet Nam. The Senate Armed Services Committee which he heads will examine the Viet Nam and Congo situations early in the new session of Congress.

"I thought we made a terrible mistake getting involved in Viet Nam," the Georgia Democrat said in an interview.

"I don't know just how we can get out now, but the time is about at hand when we must re-evaluate our position," Russell said.

"We cannot support the present regime in Saigon unless they are able to attract popular support out in the rice paddies and the villages."

"This has been very expensive in both manpower and equipment. It is costing us $1.5 million every day. A good many Americans have lost their lives."

Russell said the United States could not be "saying those who are a little bit indifferent to their own salvation."

Russell, a 30-year veteran of military affairs, said he was not "impressed by proposals to bomb these jungle trails."

He referred to recent proposals from some sources that supply lines for the Communist Viet Cong be bombed. He said it would be impossible to judge the results of such bombing.

Russell said that both the Viet Nam and Congo situations will be examined in detail by his Armed Services Committee.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and top military and strategic officials will testify at the closed hearings.

"It would be nothing less than a tragedy for us to go and get involved in the Congo as we are in Viet Nam," Russell said. "That would be a monument to poor statesmanship." He said he hopes President Johnson will avoid any such course.

Russell said several European nations, including Belgium, France, England and the Netherlands have direct interests in the Congo.

"If we let them dump this one on us, we've lost all pretense of statesmanship. If there is one place where we haven't any business now, it's the Congo," Russell said.

Accused Slayer Hears Reading Of Charges

Williamsport Man To Be Taken Before January Grand Jury

Daniel Ealey, accused of killing two Williamsport men, today heard the formal reading of two charges of first degree murder filed against him in Circleville Municipal Court.

Allan Berger, acting Municipal Court Judge during the absence of Judge Sterling M. Lamb who is on vacation, read the charges. He informed Ealey of his right to legal counsel.

Ealey told the court he would be represented by an attorney of the W. L. Johnson Construction Co. of Columbus. The accused was an employee of the firm.

However, there was no attorney present during today's court session. Berger granted a continuance until 10 a. m. Jan. 6, 1965, to give Ealey opportunity to have his lawyer present.

APPROXIMATELY 4,300 children visited Santa Claus at his headquarters during the shopping season, according to John Fissel, who headed the Jaycee committee in charge of Santa's visits here. Last year the total was listed at 3,500. Fissel told, on behalf of the Jaycees, expressed his thanks to all merchants and individuals who contributed to the Santa Claus project.

Goldwater Agrees With McNamara

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, often critical of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, has praised the Pentagon chief for his proposed merger of the Army Reserve with the National Guard.

He also congratulated McNamara, but with some qualification, on the steps being taken to close down unneeded military bases.

A letter to McNamara which Goldwater dictated Dec. 14 was made available today, on request, by the Pentagon.

Goldwater started out by saying that, over the years, "You and I seemed to be more in disagreement than in agreement," but that now he found himself in agreement.

Red China Army Claims Using New Technique

TOKYO (AP) — Red China claimed today its army, bolstered by new technical equipment and cleaned of the "bourgeois military line," is stronger than ever before.

Vice Premier Lo Jui-ching, former secret police chief who heads the army general staff, told the National People's Congress in Peking that the army is "a completely new type" securely under Communist party influence.

Kentucky Set To Drop Legal Age to Only 18

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's 18-year-olds never had it so good — or did they? Starting Jan. 1 the commonwealth will allow them to buy homes, open charge accounts and obtain loans under their own signatures.

A 1964 legislative act makes 18 the legal age for both men and women, with a few exceptions. The legal age still is 21 for the purchase of alcoholic beverages and for care and treatment of handicapped children.

Proponents say that if someone is old enough to vote and join the armed forces, he is old enough to buy a car and make other transactions.

Opponents contend 18 is too tender an age for venturing into the business forest of notes, deeds and sundry legal documents.

But Reds Grab Yule Decoration Winners Are Announced at Ashville

6,000 refugees from North Viet Nam. The refugees' morale is high and U.S. advisers say Binh Nghia is the model village in the province. They felt that the Viet Cong might be trying to break its spirit.
The captive Americans were U. S. enlisted men.
Two other U.S. soldiers, members of the Special Forces, were killed Tuesday night in another action 30 miles north of Saigon. Their deaths brought to 241 the number of Americans killed in combat since December 1961.
Thirteen Americans now are missing.
Six U.S. servicemen also were wounded in the three-day battle for Binh Nghia, 40 miles east of Saigon. Fighting still flickered Wednesday evening, but the Viet Cong was believed to have made its final onslaught on the town.
At the peak of the fighting some 1,200 government troops faced about the same number of Communists, making it one of the largest engagements in Viet Nam in the past four years.
Three U.S. helicopters were shot down Tuesday.
The town, jammed with 6,000 Roman Catholic refugees from Communist North Viet Nam, was occupied by the Viet Cong on Dec. 5 but government forces drove them out.
A powerful Viet Cong unit overran Binh Nghia again Monday. Two government Ranger companies tried to re-enter the town but were driven out. U.S. helicopters poured in troops Tuesday for the final assault.
In a seething battle around the town Tuesday, 175 battle-hardened Vietnamese Rangers were pinned down by the Viet Cong. This unit suffered at least 24 killed and an unknown number of wounded and missing.
Many of the missing were seen being led off as captives of the Viet Cong. Among them were two American advisers.

Vet Banker C. C. Schwarz Retires after Long Service

C. C. Schwarz, a popular figure at The First National Bank for more than 40 years, will be officially retired when the new year rolls around on Friday.

Mr. Schwarz, who began his long time career at the local bank on May 13, 1924, has already put in his last full day of work. He had a weeks vacation coming and decided to take it during the holiday season.

The veteran banker, a native of Circleville, was first employed at First National as a bookkeeper. He later became teller and served in other capacities until he was made cashier — a position he held until his retirement. He also has been a director of the firm since 1947.

Schwarz and his wife, Fern, are members of Trinity Lutheran Church where they are very active. He spends much of his free time in working with church projects.

He was a member of the planning committee responsible for the beautiful new church. He has served several years on the church council and teaches Sunday School.

His hobby, shared by his wife, is flower gardening. The rear lawn of their home is a colorful sight throughout the spring and summer months. They live at 147 Watt St.

Railroad Spikes Reported Stolen

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns said today 400 pounds of railroad spikes were stolen from the construction site of the new Owens-Illinois plant south of Circleville.

The theft was reported today by Mervyn Wilson, a foreman for the Atlas Railroad Construction Co. of Pennsylvania.

The spikes, apparently taken during the Christmas holiday, were valued at $70 by the firm.

City Firefighters Douse Auto Blaze

The Circleville Fire Department was called to Court and Main Sts. at 3:30 p.m. yesterday to douse an automobile fire. The blaze, resulting from a backfire through the carburetor, caused no apparent damage, firemen said. The car belongs to Wendell Smith, Amanda.

Fuller received much of his training at Ohio State University. He has about eight years service with the National Bank Examiners, a branch of the U. S. Treasury Department. He also served in the U. S. Navy for about 1½ years.

The new cashier resides at 618 Montclair Ave. with his wife, Virginia, and their four children — one girl and three boys.

Fuller is a member of the Circleville Kiwanis Club. He and his family attend the First Methodist Church.

West Seeks To Avert Another Viet Nam in Turbulent Congo

EDITOR'S NOTE — What are the Congo's chances of survival as an independent nation? Could it become another Viet Nam? In this final article of a series, an AP correspondent examines the outlook and prospects in the turbulent African republic.

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Ironically, one hope of reaching some stability in the Congo and averting another Viet Nam is that the Communists may find it even more frustrating and maddening than the West has.

Thus far, although the mimeograph machines have been busy on both sides, neither East nor West appears heavily committed in this country, which to the visitor, seems to have a natural instinct for anarchy, contradiction and chaos.

The Russians have talked loudly about aiding the Congolese rebels but to date there is little sign they have. African countries such as Algeria, Ghana and the United Arab Republic apparently have sent some material aid but, because of their own economic difficulties, Western sources doubt that they can send much.

The Red Chinese have won considerable mileage on what appears to be little effort — some weapons, money and propaganda. The United States, which supported the central government with a fingers-crossed attitude, now supplies the Congo about $50 million a year in aid, most of it in agricultural surplus. As the cold war goes, this is small.

If the Chinese increase their involvement in the mineral-rich, strategically placed Congo, the United States may be forced to increase its commitment — all of which could quickly escalate into another Viet Nam. The big question, then, is how interested are the Chinese?

"Logistically, another Viet Nam here would be difficult for the Chinese since they would be a long way from home," said one Western diplomat. "Obviously, they don't mind perpetuating turmoil in the Congo but I can't believe that they or any other Communists seriously regard this as their kind of revolution."

Linda and Larry of Mt. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter and Mrs. Bertha Porter were guests at a holiday dinner Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sunker in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Fleming were hosts at a turkey dinner Christmas Day. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Pyle and daughters Jacci Sue and Vicki Ann of Grove City, Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming and children Susan, Beth and Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming and Miss Edna Mae Hott of Columbus, Mr. Vernon Hutchison of Ashville and Mrs. Lewis Seymour.

Mrs. C. R. Root of Columbus was the Saturday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fleming and Mrs. Lewis Seymour.

Communists require a people capable of more political discipline and inflexibility."

Nothing is so rare as political discipline in the Congo or a politician who is not flexible. Ideology counts for nothing. Civil wars start simply because one group of politicians wants to replace another at the public treasury. Today's irrevocable feud may be tomorrow's irrevocable alliance.

For two years of blood warfare, Moise Tshombe fought the central government with his secessionist movement in Katanga. Now, at its invitation, he heads the central government as its prime minister.

Christopher Gbenya now leads the revolution, apparently from exile. But it was Gbenya who once offered the top spot in the rebellion to Tshombe in exchange for financial support. Tshombe turned him down.

And it was Gbenya who once came to the U.S. Embassy in Leopoldville with a letter asking for money for his movement. But the letter he pulled out of his pocket was addressed to the Soviet ambassador. The mistake was called to his attention. Without dropping an ideological stitch, Gbenya quickly replaced the letter with a similar one addressed to the American ambassador.

Captured documents show that some rebel leaders tried to borrow from the Red Chinese manual of revolution. Thus, to keep the local populace on their side, rebel troops were admonished against stealing from civilians. But this appeared to be no problem for the soldiers of the "Congo People's Republic." They would ask a civilian for his money or jewelry and if he obliged, surely that wasn't stealing? The fact that the request was made at gunpoint seemed irrelevant.

And then there is "l'arrangement a la bantu," which has given fits to Westerners trying to teach Congolese government and is likely to slow down the Chinese, even with their great patience. This is the bantu, or African arrangement, a psychology that almost defies Western understanding.

The Congolese conception of government is not rule but discussion, not action but palaver. The prime object of debate is not decision but talk. Westerners think the only logical and point of debate is a vote in which the majority rules. The Congolese find this too unkind to the minority. And so they talk and talk until all sides are so exhausted compromise may become possible. And even then there is little inclination to feel bound by the ultimate solution.

Virtually all sources here agree that what the Congo needs most is time, but the world gives it little time. History offers few parallels. There might have been a similar situation in the United States if the Indians, not European settlers, had suddenly been given charge of the country's development, if only a generation had intervened between 1402 and 1776, and only four years between 1776 and 1964.

Western diplomats regard the Congo's chances of survival as a nation as a race against time.

The United Nations has a technical assistance force here of 2,000 experts all hurrying to teach the government and mechanical skills. The Congo began independence four years ago without a college graduate of its own, without one Congolese military officer, without one man trained in government. Now there are a few and more are studying at universities abroad and small schools here. The first class of Congolese judges was graduated only a few weeks ago. Army officers are being trained in Belgium and Israel. All of this takes time.

Meanwhile, the United States supports the Tshombe regime as the only one now capable of governing at all. This involves a long series of ifs.

"If more officials and army officers can be trained soon enough," says an American diplomatic source, "if Tshombe isn't assassinated, if he or some other strong man can hold it together, if foreign pressures don't prove too divisive, I'd say there is some hope for the Congo."

"So far, I'd say our side is staying about even. For the moment, it's winning militarily. Diplomatically, we're taking hell of a pounding. We knew we would be supporting Tshombe, who is so thoroughly hated elsewhere in Africa. But he is able, and he was the choice of the legal government, and we support the legal government."

"The alternative would be complete unending chaos. Unless the Congo learns something about government and national unity, it will fall apart into separate warring states. One or two might be pro-Western, and others pro-Communist. There would be so much fighting that in the end it would cost everybody more."

Why doesn't the United States just pull out and save itself the possible agony of another Viet Nam?

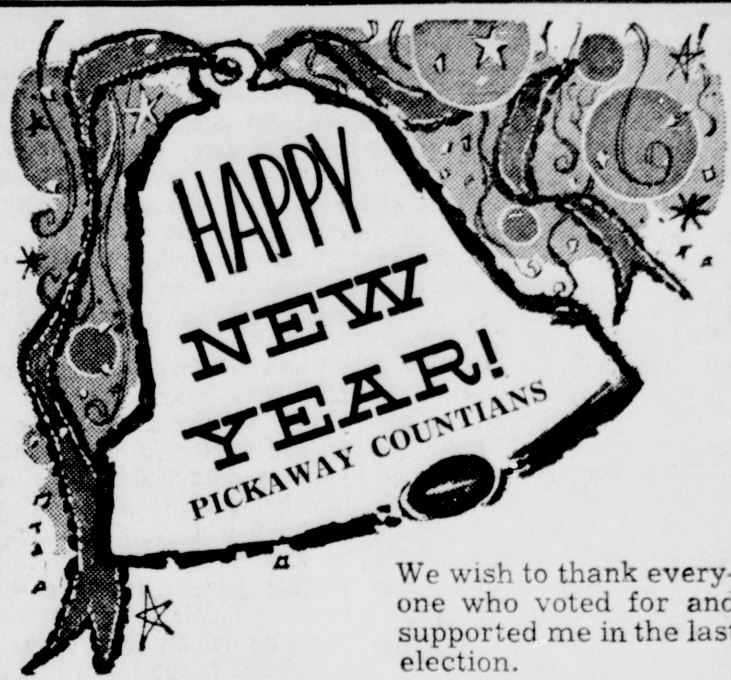

"Because the Congo is the heart of Africa and controls the approaches to much of the continent. I don't think the Russians are serious here, they're just keeping an oar in because they're worried more about the Chinese than us."

"And we're more worried about the Chinese than the Russians. They've already bought Burundi, a small neighboring kingdom. They are very active across the river in the other Congo. They are increasing their influence in Tanganyika and are moving into the Sudan. You can't just let a continent as big and important as Africa go by default."

While talking, the American had been trying to reach a member of the Congolese Cabinet by phone. After three tries, he finally got a dial tone. Then he got a busy signal. Then he got the wrong number, none of which is unusual in the chaotic Leopoldville phone system. Finally — and this too is not unusual — he got the right number but the Cabinet member he sought wasn't there and no one seemed to know where he was or when or if he would be back.

The American shrugged wearily and lit another cigarette. To Western men, chain-smoking comes easily in the Congo but little else does.

DETERGENTS AS HEALTH HAZARDS

Q. Why are detergents more harmful than soap in water pollution?

A. Because most synthetic detergents, unlike soaps, are relatively resistant to the action of bacteria and are therefore difficult to remove from water. Soaps can be removed relatively completely in waste water-treatment plants and are readily broken down (degraded) biologically by bacterial action in streams and soils. On the other hand, only about 50 per cent of detergents are removed by the usual water-treatment process and they persist for long periods in streams because they are resistant to break-down by bacterial action. Foaming is another objectionable feature of water polluted by detergents. In some areas enough detergent carries over into the household water supply to cause tap water to foam. The detergent industry has announced its intention to manufacture detergents devoid of these objectionable features in the future.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 115-member United Nations is doing business by pantomime. It's snarled in back dues, voting rights and face-saving.

The basic question: Does the Soviet Union have a right to vote in the General Assembly until it pays its share of the U.N. peace-keeping costs?

The roots of the trouble go back 14 years to 1950 when the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea.

The 11-member Security Council went into session. Five of these members are permanent: the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Nationalist China.

Anyone of the five has the veto power to kill any severe action by the council. But just then, by a freak, the Soviet Union was boycotting the group.

The council promptly voted to fight the invasion with U.N. forces. The Soviet Union returned, too late to undo this, and tried to be a bottleneck.

Then the United States thought it time to shift some of this absolute power away from the council.

It proposed that the General Assembly, made up of all the U.N. members and with no one holding a veto, should be able to take action against an aggressor.

The vote was 52 to 5. The United Nations was a lot smaller then. The five dissenters were the Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc. Years passed and more trouble came.

In 1956 the General Assembly voted to send a U.N. peace-keeping force into the Middle East to prevent trouble between Arabs and Israelis. In 1960 it sent a peace-keeping force into the Congo.

The Soviet Union opposed both moves. France opposed the Congo action. But sustaining a U.N. armed force costs millions. The Soviet Union and France fell behind in their share.

That's a rough sketch of the background. The story gets a little technical now because Article 19 of the U.N. Charter says: If a members falls behind for two years in what it owes toward U.N. expenses, it shall have no vote in the assembly.

By the time the General Assembly began its winter session this year on Dec. 1, the Soviet Union was behind $52 million — altogether 15 nations were behind — and so was France which paid its share of Middle East costs but not those for the Congo.

But France won't become two years behind until Jan. 1 and therefore until now hasn't been in a position to force a test of Article 19: Could it vote after being two years behind in dues?

The United States insisted, with approval by Congress, that the Soviet Union should be made to pay its dues or be prevented from voting.

The International Court of Justice two years ago upheld Article 19 but no one in the United Nations has to abide by the court's decision and the Soviet Union ignored it.

The Soviet Union argued the U.N. operations in the Middle East and the Congo were both illegal. It says only the Security Council, where it has a veto, and not the assembly has authority to vote funds for peace-keeping.

Too much of a showdown between the United States and the Soviet Union could wreck the world organization.

So, when the United Nations opened Dec. 1, there was a kind of general tippy-toeing in a search for a solution and this was the embarrassing part of it.

This country insisted the Soviet Union couldn't vote in the assembly till it paid its bill. The pantomime began when the assembly had to elect a president.

How could it do that without voting? A way was found. A new president, Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, was chosen by acclamation arranged beforehand.

Then came another problem: four new members of the Security Council had to be elected by the assembly. All the council members, except the big five which are permanent, hold their seats for a limited time.

More pantomime. The U.N. members avoided a conflict over voting by filing into the president's office and marking ballots. This was prearranged, too.

The American-Russian showdown, already delayed a month, will almost certainly now be delayed until some time in January.

But by then France will have become two years delinquent on its share of the costs for keeping the Congo peace. That's a brand new problem.

In addition to the question of the voting right of a country that doesn't pay its share of U.N. costs, there's this unsettled one too: Should the assembly or the council have the say over sending troops anywhere to keep the peace?

Du Pont Lists New Plan For Vacations

Improvements in the Du Pont Company's vacation plan for employees at the Circleville plant were announced today by A. D. Bray, manager of the installation.

As a result of these changes, all employees with five years or more of service will receive additional vacation.

Effective with vacations for 1965, all employees with five to 10 years service will receive three weeks of vacation; those with 10 to 20 years will receive four weeks; those with 20 to 35 years will receive five weeks, and those with 35 years or more will receive six weeks.

Employees with one to five years' service will continue to receive two weeks of vacation.

Another change will allow longer service employees to carry forward to a succeeding year one or two vacation weeks. For example, a person with 30 years of service may accumulate four weeks of vacation through the carry-over provision, which when added to his current year's vacation will entitle him to a total of nine weeks.

New Breed in Orient Is Yankee Small Fry

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Sunset cast an orange glow over exotic India. Ruins dead many hundreds of years seemed to come alive. The great Rajpath Avenue in New Delhi was clogged with turbaned siks, ox carts and bicycle riders — phantom figures moving through the dusk.

Somewhere, an itinerant peddler tooted his buffalo horn flute. It was one of those rare moments of true mystique in the Orient.

"I wonder," said a 5-year-old, "could grandmother mail us wiener schnitzel from Milwaukee?"

Thus was the spell broken by the voice of an irreverent new breed in the Orient — the American small fry, those involuntary expatriates whose cowboy hats, baseball bats and roller skates have become part of most Asian capitals between Tokyo and Rawalpindi, Pakistan.

They are the children of American businessmen, diplomats or foreign correspondents. To them Tokyo's Ginza, Hong Kong's waterfront or New Delhi's Connaught Circle never will be home. To them the mystique of the Orient — engendered in older generations by Rudyard Kipling and Joseph Conrad — is rather funny.

The farther these youngsters get from America, the more all-American they become. The longer they live in Asia, the purer is their patriotism. Nothing in Asia—Japan's green-clad mountains, Bangkok's lovely temples, or India's ancient ruins — can match Milwaukee's wiener schnitzel, Hollywood's movies, or the latest American hit tune.

Most of these kids become fluent in one or more foreign languages even the tough ones like Japanese or Chinese. But they often refuse to speak them because, as one 7-year-old said, "They aren't American."

Dressing up in kimono or sari may be fun for parties but for serious business, like going to school, most favored are bobby sox, skirt and sweater, or sweat shirt and dungarees.

Children who attend the American international schools in Tokyo or New Delhi are in their mode of dress carbon copies of those who go to public school in Topeka or Fort Wayne.

But they differ in other ways. School officials in New Delhi, who have taught in America as well as at foreign posts, say the 319 kids in the high school generally have higher IQ's than their counterparts in America. More go on to college and they score higher on college entrance examinations, although math suffers because continuity of instruction is broken by all the traveling the kids do.

New Year's Traditions

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

New Year's has almost as many traditions as Christmas.

In Greece, for example, it's a big family holiday. Even small children are allowed to stay up to greet the New Year.

Highlight of the celebration is the cutting of the Vasilopeta, a light and delicious New Year's cake, by the head of the household. A coin is hidden in one piece and, tradition says, the one who gets the coin will have good luck.

On New Year's Eve Swiss carolers go from house to house singing and offering good wishes. They're served a special kind of New Year's bread that's unusually delicious.

Recipes for these Greek and Swiss specialties follow.

GREEK NEW YEAR'S CAKE

1/2 c. milk
1/4 c. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 stick margarine
1 tbs. grated lemon peel
1/2 c. warm water
(105-115 degrees F.)
2 pkgs. or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
3 eggs, beaten
5/8 c. unsifted flour (about)
Beaten egg
Sesame seeds
Blanched almonds

Scald milk; mix in sugar, salt, margarine and lemon peel. Cool to lukewarm.

Measure warm water into bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, eggs and half of flour. Beat until smooth. Add enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 min.

Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top of dough.

Bible Class To Meet

The Westminster Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church will meet 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Leslie May, 303 E. Franklin St.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free form draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 1/2 hrs.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide into two equal pieces. Press dough into two greased 9-in. round cake pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 50 min.

Brush tops lightly with beaten egg; sprinkle with sesame seeds. Decorate with almonds.

Bake at 350 degrees F. about 25 min., or until done. Cool slightly, then turn out onto wire rack and cool.

Note: A coin may be added when cakes are shaped and placed in pans for final rising.

SWISS NEW YEAR'S BREAD

1 1/4 c. milk
3/4 c. sugar
1 1/2 sticks margarine
3/4 c. warm water (105-115 degrees F.)
3 pkg. yeast, active dry or compressed
1/2 tsp. ground cardamom
6 1/4 c. unsifted flour (about)
3/4 c. raisins
3/4 c. chopped citron
1 egg, beaten

Scald milk; stir in sugar and margarine. Cool to lukewarm.

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, cardamom and half of flour. Beat until smooth.

Add enough additional flour to form soft dough; turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 min.

Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top of dough. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 min.

Punch dough down. On lightly floured board, knead in raisins and citron. Divide dough into 4 equal portions and shape into oblong loaves. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 40 min.

Brush with beaten egg. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 30 min. or until done.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

It's Emotional Upset!

DEAR ABBY: I know this is going to sound ridiculous, but I'm ashamed to ask anyone else. How can I break my husband of sucking his thumb? When he sleeps, reads the newspaper or settles down to watch TV, he sucks his left thumb. I know he isn't aware of it because when I tell him to quit it, he is always shocked to find his thumb in his mouth. We have two small children who also suck their thumbs when they're tired, and it is so hard to break them of it when they see their father doing it. Is it hereditary? It's such an unmanly habit for a 34-year-old man. It's caused many fights between us. Can you help me?

SUCKER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: A psychiatrist would probably tell you that your husband is longing for the security of his baby days. (They call it "regression.") It isn't hereditary. Children are imitative, which is partly the reason your children suck their thumbs. Granted, it's not "manly," but it's not worth fighting about, so if it irritates him to be reminded—skip it.

DEAR ABBY: I recently visited my sister, who lives in another state. She is married to a quiet, well-to-do man. They have a 16-year-old daughter. I didn't realize how much tension my sister was living under until I stayed there. He is a dictator and no one dares to disagree with him on anything. My sister has no car and if she isn't home when he calls, he comes home, waits for her and makes her account for every minute. He handles all the money. She never sees a red cent. Everything is charged and he pays the bills. The daughter isn't allowed to date or to accept a phone call from a boy. At dinner he demands that the daughter finish every speck on her plate, so the child has to choke it down with tears running down her cheeks. My sister sits there trembling, afraid to say a word. Once she tried to take her daughter's part against him and he slapped her from one end of the kitchen to the other. Now I know why people kill each other. Is there something I can do, legally, to relieve the situation?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You can't—but your sister can if she wants to prefer charges against him. I doubt that she will, however, because a woman who puts up with the cruel and inhuman treatment is as "sick" as the husband who dishes it out. The most tragic victim is the daughter, who must be sub-

Wichita Takes Shocking Loss

Coach Is Dismayed By Fans, Officials

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wichita basketball coach Gary Thompson didn't fly a kite but the way he figures it he got a bigger shock in Philadelphia than Ben Franklin.

"This is the last time I'll come here," Thompson said Tuesday night after his second-ranked Wheatshockers were beaten by 10th-ranked St. Joseph's Pa., 77-69 in the championship game of the Quaker City Basketball Tournament.

Thompson's complaints were about the fans and, of course, the officiating.

"I don't have rabbit ears," said Thompson, "but some of the things that were said were pretty bad. The fans are too loud."

As for the officials, Thompson said they were "not consistent in their calls. I disagree with the tempo. There is more body contact here than in the Midwest."

The Wheatshockers had 23 personal fouls called against them by referees John Stevens and Jim Lennon to 10 for St. Joseph's — and actually lost the game at the foul line. Each team connected for 28 field goals but the Hawks made 20 of 29 foul shots to 13 of 15 for Wichita.

The upset was the second in two nights pulled off by the Hawks, extended their unbeaten string to 10 and continued local mastery of the 4-year-old tournament. St. Joseph's also won the tournament in 1962 while Villanova and LaSalle won the others.

Sixth-ranked Illinois, which dropped a 75-71 decision to St. Joseph's Monday night, took third place in the tournament with a 74-65 victory over Villanova.

The Quaker City was one of six tournaments which crowned champions Tuesday night while other major holiday classics moved through preliminary action and set the stage for a Wednesday night program spotlighting 10 finals plus the heralded individual duel between Cazzie Russell of top-ranked Michigan and Bill Bradley of Princeton in the semifinals of the Holiday Festival at New York.

Besides Wichita, only one other ranked team was involved in a title game Tuesday night with seventh-ranked Indiana walloping Memphis State 91-68 in the Memphis State Classic.

Miami of Florida won the Hurricane Classic at Miami by downing Maryland 80-73. Davidson annexed the Charlotte Invitational with an 81-63 triumph over Ohio University. Penn State edged Detroit 75-73 in the Motor City Classic wrapup and Baylor defeated Clemson 68-59 for the championship of the Poinsettia Classic at Greenville, S.C.

Ryan To Receive Prize Football

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The television coverage of the Cleveland Browns dressing room Sunday after the Browns' 27-0 victory over the Baltimore Colts and an alert viewer here has resulted in the recovery of a prized football.

Police said Tuesday they have recovered the game ball presented to Browns quarterback Frank Ryan. The ball was taken from Ryan's locker during the post-game celebration.

Officers said they retrieved the ball from a 16-year-old Syracuse youth who was recognized in the Browns' dressing room by a Syracuse man watching the television coverage.

Retiring Coach Dreams Of 7-Foot Watusi Team

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll destroy the game of basketball," chortled Joe Lapchick, the very successful coach at St. John's and center on the original Celtics.

"We'll win 'em all 1-0." Then to Ken Norton, Manhattan coach:

"You want a job, Ken? I'll make you a great coach."

Lapchick, whose career spans half the life of the game, was kidding — maybe — when he talked about his approaching retirement and an African offer he has.

"It's a bonafide offer," Lapchick insisted. "I'm gonna go coach the Watusis."

Then the 64-year-old who retires at the end of the season, explained:

"I've been coaching in the East a lot of years now. When we get a kid 6-foot-7 we figure, man, this is the year. We've got one. Our forwards go 6-4, 6-2. Then these Western teams — Michigan, Cincinnati — come in and they go 6-7, 6-7, 6-6 and 6-5. It's discouraging."

"Now, I'm retiring, you know. My daughter lives in Uganda. I've got a friend over there, Harry England. He made me this offer."

"You see, the Watusis used to be the warrior tribe there. A runt goes 6-10. But the Bantus got real powerful and kicked them out and they're wandering around the out-back now. So Harry figured it would be a good thing, restore confidence, pride, that sort of thing, if we found something for them to do they could do real good."

"Like basketball."

"So I'm going to go coach the Watusis and I'll destroy the game of basketball."

"Can't you just imagine five seven-footers playing a zone? Think of all those arms up there. We wouldn't have to score. We'd win 'em all one to nothing."

"I'm going to think about it. At first I didn't think I was interested, but now I'm not sure. I'll think about it. I'll think about those five seven-footers with their arms up."

Kingston, Centralia Win Holiday Tournament Games

Kingston and Centralia emerged as winners last night in the holiday tournament hosted by the Bulldogs, setting the scene for tonight's championship battle between the two Ross County rivals.

Huntington, defending champion of the annual event, was edged, 59-58, by the Redskins. Centralia earned a 72-66 win over Laurelville.

Kingston fans have come to expect the close game. No less than five of the tilts played by the Redskins have been decided by four or fewer points.

And last night was no exception. After building a 10-point lead over the Huntsmen, the Kingston cagers saw the margin dwindle until Huntington knotted the score at 52-52 late in the game.

MIKE SEARCH'S 21 points paced the winners while Ron Cox scored 16 for the losers.

In the game between the Wildcats and the Bulldogs, Rick Ungert tossed 14 field goals and four foul shots through the hoops for a high total of 32 points for the evening.

However, Laurelville could not overcome Centralia's balanced scoring attack that saw all five starters score 10 or more points.

Glenn Burchwell headed the winners' offense with 18 markers. Gary Lyons scored 17 and Bill Fetters added 16. Tonight Laurelville and Huntington tangle at 7 p.m. in the preliminary tilt. The championship game is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m.

1964 Horseman Award Given to Farrington

LEXINGTON, Ky. (A) — Harness driver Robert G. Farrington has been named winner of the ninth annual horseman award by Horseman & Fair World Magazine.

Farrington, 35, owner of a farm at Richmond, Ohio, has won 1,299 races in 10 years and was national driving champion in 1961, 1962 and this year. His 312 winners this year earned $506,269.

Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers, a pass-catching end, scored the most touchdowns (105) in professional football history.

Our acquaintances are not forgotten, we send you our best wishes for a Happy New Year.

We thank you for your loyal patronage during 1964 and look forward to the opportunity of serving you during '65!

Heidelberg, Kenyon Still On Losing End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's true what they say about Heidelberg and Kenyon: They can't win for losing.

Both teams did it again Tuesday night, Heidelberg running its string to eight straight defeats and Kenyon dropping its sixth basketball game in a row.

Heidelberg was blitzed 96-65 in consolation play at the Findlay Holiday Tourney. Kenyon came closer, but still lost 77-74 to Alfred in second round play of the Union College Tournament at Schenectady, N. Y.

At this rate, the losing could go on forever—or at least until Feb. 2. That's when Kenyon and Heidelberg play and one of them will have to win.

Elsewhere on the basketball scene, Ohio University was battered in the finals of the Charlotte Invitational Basketball Tournament by Davidson's ball-hawks, 81-63.

Dashing Dick Snyder of North Canton, Ohio, added insult to injury by scoring 23 points for Davidson and being tabbed the tourney's most valuable player. Don Hilt was Ohio's top scorer with 13.

Ohio made a battle of it for the first 14 minutes during which the score was tied eight times but Davidson began to pour it on and moved to a 42-30 halftime advantage. Alabama edged Duquesne 62-57 for third place.

Xavier of Cincinnati lost a first-half lead to Oklahoma City University in the All College Tournament at Oklahoma City and went down to defeat 90-75. The Chiefs scored 10 quick points in the second half to overcome a 32-38 deficit. Xavier's great Steve Thomas led all scorers with 1 points, which is just about his average. Xavier will meet Brigham Young to night to battle it out for third place. Oklahoma City and DePaul meet for the championship.

Defending champion Findlay outlasted Ohio Northern 87-84 in a tough battle to take the Findlay tournament title for the second year.

In another tournament, Maine toppled Muskingum 102-78 in first round play and Wooster downed Hartwick in a squeaker, 74-71. Wooster and Maine will meet tonight for the tournament championship with Hartwick of Oneonta, N.Y., and Muskingum in the consolation.

At Indianapolis, Otterbein crushed Franklin 86-49 and meets Indiana Central tonight for the championship.

In the Flint, Mich., JC tourney, Bluffton, defeated Hillsdale of Michigan 66-64 in first round play and meets Flint tonight for the title.

Closing Date Set for Fees In Scioto Challenge Stakes

Nominations to the Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes Number Four are now open with a closing date of Jan. 15, 1965.

The $30 nomination fee makes the nominee eligible to the 2-year-old division to be raced during the 1965 race meeting at Scioto Downs, the 3-year-old division to be raced in 1966, and the 4-year-old division to be raced in 1967.

The coveted Challenge Stakes, although open to the world was dominated by Ohio owned trotters and pacers in the 1964 edition which carried a total purse of $54,205. Four of the six divisions were won by Ohio owned standardbreds.

Lucy's Victory, a bay son of Victory Song, owned by Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati, captured the $8,560 four-year-old trotting division of the 1964 Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes. Reined by Curly Smart, Lucy's Victory was timed in 2:04 in his four-length victory over Drury.

Delightful Time, co-owned by Driver George Sholtz and the C. & M. Stable of Archbold, O., won the $7,850 four-year-old pacing division of the Challenge Stakes by a length and a half over Gene Hill in 2:02 3-5.

Combat Time, the fantastic son of Good Time with Bruce Nickells in the sulky bested a select field of sophomore side-wheelers in the $9,840 three-year-old pacing division of the Challenge Stakes. Owned by the Tamarack Farms of Painesville, Number Two.

O., Combat Time beat out Pardon Boy in a thrilling two-horse duel by a neck in 2:01 2-5.

A game Florican Flash, owned by the Sweet Valley Farm of Dayton won the first elimination heat, and the race-off to take the major portion of the $8,600 purse in the 2-year-old trotting division. Reined by Gene Reigle, this bay son of Florican posted miles of 2:05 1-5 and 2:07 2-5 to take the victory.

Only Gee Lee Hanover, the brilliant juvenile sidewheeler from the Dixie Stable of New York, and Valiant Ruler from the Kildare Stable of Oxon Hill, Md. managed to break the Ohio-owned theme in the 1964 Challenge Stakes.

Gee Lee Hanover with Harold "Sonny" Dancer at the helm carved out a new track pacing record for 2 year-olds with his mile in 2:02 1-5 in the second elimination heat.

Valiant Ruler won the $9,240 three-year-old trotting division of the Challenge Stakes with a three length victory over Scribe Rodney in 2:04 4-5.

Scioto Downs will add $3,000 to each 2-year-old division for each gait, $4,000 to each 3-year-old division for each gait, and $5,000 to each 4-year-old division for each gait.

Also due on Jan. 15, is the $35 sustaining payment for the 3-year-old events in Challenge Stakes Number Three, and the $50 sustaining payment for 4-year-olds in Challenge Stakes Number Two.

One New Year's Eve a man on the corner in Harlem shouted, "Hallalouyera!" By morning all New York was echoing the newly coined word. We think it's a good word. It sounds like a greeting filled with faith, prosperity and happiness — all the things we wish for you in the New Year — "Hallalouyera!"

New Year's is as much a time for looking back as looking forward — old memories and old friends. Emerson says, "The only way to have a friend is to be one." Wilson Mizner solves the problem of keeping friendships, "The best way to keep your friends is not to give them away." "Win new friends, but keep the old. The first are silver, but the latter, gold." Old friends — new friends — we hope you'll include us on one of these lists for '65. 1964 gave us the opportunity of making many new friends — if you weren't one of them we hope you'll give us that privilege this year.

This is the time, too, for all those New Year's resolutions. One New Year's Mark Twain made this one. "This year I'm going to live within my income even if I have to borrow money to do it!" . . . but good resolutions too often go in one year and out the other. Two men were discussing last New Year's. "I started out believing this was the year the world had an opening for me," one said. "Did you find it," asked the other? "Well, in a way, I've been in the hole all coming year."

If you're planning a night out New Year's Eve you'll find most night club tables are reserved even though the patrons aren't! What is it about New Year's Eve? Many a man's horse sense disappears when he's feeling his oats! Be that as it may, we hope you'll sense our sincerity in offering you our services this coming year and give us the opportunity to prove to you our agency has your satisfaction in mind. "Happy New Year to You and Yours."

Alabama Qb Is Offered $389,000 To Turn Pro

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Alabama quarterback Joe Namath has been offered $389,000 to sign with the New York Jets of the American Football League. In 1947, with that kind of money, you could have bought the Detroit Lions — twice — and still received $69,000 change.

Joe Namath
Alabama

The astounding offer to Namath, a major target in the multi-million-dollar pro football signing war between the National and American Football leagues, was revealed to The Associated Press Tuesday in Miami by sources close to Namath and the Jets.

At the same time, another passing whiz, Tulsa's Jerry Rhome, signed with Dallas of the NFL although he was offered more money by the AFL's Houston Oilers.

And Georgia's All-America tackle, Jim Wilson, wound up with two contracts — one from each league.

All three cases bore the mark of the highest bidding war in pro football history — hard to believe.

First there was the offer made to Namath for $100,000 a year for three years plus a new limousine and other bonuses totaling in the neighborhood of $89,000. That would make the son of a Neaver Falls, Pa., gas station attendant the highest priced rookie ever.

Could that really be the price was the first question posed?

"It's more than that," said a spokesman for the St. Louis Cardinals, who asked not to be identified.

"We'll pay more to get him than has ever been paid for a rookie," admitted Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets. "We expect to get him."

Namath's signing is expected to be announced this weekend after Alabama meets Texas in the Orange Bowl game Friday night.

Rhyme was a future pick in both leagues and had been traded to Houston by the Jets in turn for the rights to Namath. Rhome said the Oilers had offered him more money but "I want to play in the National Football League, which is stronger than the AFL."

Rhymes' contract with the Cowboys stipulates he cannot be sold or traded for the first year.

So he will be in Dallas, battling veteran Don Meredith and rookie Craig Morton for the quarterbacking job.

Where Wilson will be, however, just might be a question for lawyers to decide.

Drafted by Boston of the AFL and San Francisco of the NFL, Wilson apparently signed a contract with the Patriots on Aug. 25 — the league office says it has the contract — and then signed with the 49ers after the Sun Bowl game last Saturday.

Vince Dooley, Georgia coach, said the university plans to protest to AFL Commissioner Joe Foss because Wilson signed while he was still in school and said representatives of the Boston club no longer are welcome on the Georgia campus.

"I don't blame the Georgia coach for being upset," said Patriots' resident Billy Sullivan. "But I don't think it was our responsibility to notify the coach. That was the player's responsibility. There was no undue pressure on this boy to sign."

Sullivan also said, "We have notified San Francisco that we have a signed contract... we are assuming they didn't know we already had a signed contract."

There was one other big name signing — Wake Forest fullback Brian Piccolo going with the Chicago Bears. Piccolo, the nation's leading college scorer and ground gainer, was not picked in either the NFL or AFL draft and was a free agent.

JOSEPH R. BARTZ

WILLIAM SHOCKLEY

WILLIAM H. SPROUT

ARTHUR I. CROSS

DAVID E. SCHNEIDER

Appointments to new posts were announced today for six employees at Du Pont's Circleville film plant.

The new assignments, effective Jan. 1, go to Joseph R. Bartz, William Shockley, William H. Sprout, Arthur I. Cross, William R. Pike and David E. Schneider.

Bartz, manufacturing superintendent, has been placed on special assignment to coordinate the modernization and improvement of "Mylar" facilities at the Circleville plant. He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech where he was awarded a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is a veteran of one year in the U. S. Air Force.

The Du Pont executive and his wife, Vera, live at 995 Lynwood Court. They have three children, Richard Mark, 12; Terry Lynn, 14; and Patricia Jo, 11.

BARTZ joined Du Pont in 1948 as an engineer in the works engineering section at the Clinton, Ia., celophane plant. He later was named production supervisor at Clinton, then was transferred in the same capacity to the Yerkes Research Laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y.

Assigned to Circleville in 1953 as a production supervisor, he later was appointed manufacturing superintendent in the "Mylar" operation here.

Bartz has been active in local Boy Scout work. He currently is a member of the Community Fund Board of Directors and serves on the advisory board of the Industrial Relations Club at Chillicothe.

SHOCKLEY, an area supervisor, has been appointed manufacturing superintendent in the "Mylar" operation to succeed Bartz. He came with the company in 1955, and like his predecessor here, started as an engineer in the engineering works section at Clinton, Ia. He later was named a foreman and shift supervisor in operations respectively there.

The new manufacturing superintendent came to Circleville in 1960 as a supervisor. He later was appointed an area supervisor in operations.

Shockley is a graduate of the University of Delaware where he earned a BS in mechanical engineering. He served three years in the U. S. Army.

He and his wife, Kay, have three children, Lisa Louise, 8, William Scott, 6, and Suzanne Christine, 9 months. They live at 1040 Georgia Road.

Active with the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Community Fund, Shockley also serves on the board of directors of the Methodist Church and the Pickaway Country Club.

SPROUTS new assignment lists him as an area supervisor. He previously served as an assistant area supervisor.

With Du Pont since 1954, Sprout started as an engineer in the technical section for the company's Photo Products plant in Parlin, N. J. He was awarded his bachelor and masters degrees in chemical engineering at Ohio State University.

He was transferred to the Circleville plant in 1956 as an engineer in the technical section. He later moved to operations where he held posts as foreman, supervisor and assistant area supervisor until his new appointment.

Sprout and his wife, Shirley, have three children, William Randall, 11, James Wallace, 8, and Susan Lynette, 5 months. They live at 388 Meadow Lane.

A veteran of two years in the U. S. Army, Sprout serves as a deacon of the First Presbyterian Church and is a former officer for Cub Pack 205.

CROSS has been appointed an area supervisor in manufacturing after serving as a specialist in accounting. He started with Du Pont in 1960 as a methods engineer at the company's film plant in Old Hickory, Tenn. Later assignments were as an engineer in the accounting section and supervisor in manufacturing — both at Old Hickory.

His transfer to the Circleville plant was effective Nov. 1 of this year. He was graduated at the University of Florida where he earned BIE and MSE degrees. He served two years in the U. S. Army.

The new area supervisor and his wife, Mona, live at 235 Cedar Heights Road. They have two children, Mona Lisa, 7 and Sharon Gay, 3.

PIKE, previously serving as a specialist in the technical section, has been appointed supervisor of inspection. A graduate of Colgate University with a bachelor of arts degree, he started with the company in 1962 as a foreman at the Nylon plant in Seaford, Dela.

After holding several supervisory jobs at Du Pont's Textile Fibres plant in Kingston, N. C., Pike was transferred to Circleville as a shift supervisor in manufacturing.

On the local scene, Pike is a member of the Saddle and Bridle Club, a past president of the Washington Twp. PTO and serves as announcer at the annual Kiwanis Charity Horse Show. He resides at 214 E. Main St.

SCHNEIDER, who began his Du Pont tenure at the Circleville plant in 1959, has been appointed a supervisor in production control.

He started here as an engineer in the technical section. He worked as a shift supervisor in manufacturing prior to his new assignment.

Schneider is a graduate of Purdue University where he was awarded a BS degree in mechanical engineering. He

Sales Tax Deductions Lower Than Year Ago

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—You can deduct $151 on your federal income tax return for state sales taxes—provided, of course, you made more than $20,000 this year and had six dependents.

If you're a more average taxpayer, with an income around $5,500, you can only deduct about $50.

And no matter your income, you'll find the deductions allowed for state sales tax are lower this year than the last time you filed a return.

A revised table of sales tax deductions from the Internal Revenue Service today shows that the allowances this year are considerably lower.

In the top bracket, for instance—income of $20,000 a year or more and five or more dependents—the maximum allowance of $151 this year compares with an allowance of $195 last year.

The decreases are similar on down the line.

But a Revenue Service spokesman said there is some compensation in that this year taxpayers also can deduct as a separate item sales tax paid on the purchase of a car.

Taxpayers also can deduct sales tax of seven cents a gallon on gasoline, in addition to the flat amount on the Revenue Service table.

The table is more complete this year, with figures for 30 incomes in each of four family sizes. Income levels range from under $1,000 to $20,000 and up. Family sizes are grouped for one and two; three and four; five, and five and over.

With an income of $5,000, for example, a taxpayer can deduct $37 with up to two dependents or $47 with five or more. In the $10,000 bracket, the comparable figures are $66 and $85.

The deductions permitted on the table are considered averages of what a family would pay in sales tax.

You don't have to accept them. But if you think you paid more sales tax than the average on the table, be prepared to prove your case.

"If the table is not used," the Revenue Service said, "sales tax deductions must be itemized and substantiated."

Here are specific examples of deductions with income bracket and Column "A" for one and two dependents and Column "B" for three and four dependents:

| Income   | A   | B   |
|----------|-----|-----|
| $3,000  | 25  | 31  |
| $4,000  | 31  | 39  |
| $5,000  | 37  | 45  |
| $6,000  | 43  | 51  |
| $7,000  | 48  | 57  |
| $8,000  | 55  | 63  |
| $9,000  | 60  | 69  |
| $10,000 | 66  | 76  |
| $12,000 | 76  | 88  |
| $15,000 | 91  | 104 |
| $20,000 | 115 | 129 |

Rifle Mishap Sends Coed, 22, to Hospital

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A .22-caliber rifle was discharged when it fell from a closet that Jean Ann Marcossion, 22, was cleaning in the upstairs bedroom of her Painesville Township home Tuesday and the bullet struck her in the abdomen. She was admitted to Lake County Memorial Hospital East of here in poor condition. Miss Marcossion is a student at Lake Erie College here.
